Client And Therapist Relationship

The therapeutic relationship (also therapeutic alliance, the helping alliance, or the working alliance) refers to the relationship between a healthcare professional and a client (or patient). It is the means by which a therapist and a client hope to engage with each other, and effect beneficial change in the client.

In the first part of this series, I discussed Allan Schore's video about early neurological damage resulting from failures in the attachment relationship between mother and baby. In the second part, I used Schore's research to help explain why our defense mechanisms are so tenacious, and why authentic change is difficult and rare. I'd now like to conclude with my personal, somewhat ...
