Substance abuse is characterized by a pattern of use that causes significant impairment or distress, in addition to any one of these additional diagnostic criteria: using substances in situations where it endangers the user; a failure to fulfill major obligations at work, school or home; having multiple drug-related legal problems; or continuing to use substances regardless of the problems it ...

Alcoholism in family systems refers to the conditions in families that enable alcoholism, and the effects of alcoholic behavior by one or more family members on the rest of the family. Mental health professionals are increasingly considering alcoholism and addiction as diseases that flourish in and are enabled by family systems. Family members react to the alcoholic with particular behavioral ...

A lcohol. Alcohol, a substance legal for adults in the United States to ingest, is the most widely used substance of intoxication in the world. 7 It is rapidly metabolized in the human body. Approximately 90% to 95% is oxidized in the liver by alcohol and aldehyde dehydrogenase and the microsomal ethanol-oxidizing system before elimination in the urine. 84 Only 1% to 2% of ingested alcohol is ...
